PROFILE

I'm passionate about technology since I was a child, I'm fascinated by the way in which things as common as web pages and mobile applications or things as complex as blockchain, artificial intelligence and quantum computing work. Over the past few years, I've learned to use many tools for software development and at the same time I have developed the ability to create great ideas within these tools, and also a more focused thinking to create and optimize algorithms of systems and applications, And best of all, he found a taste for creating complex solutions within powerful tools.
